1016 Private South Indian Cooking Class and Dinner For Four

You and your family or three of your friends can spend an afternoon learning how to cook a variety of South Indian dishes and have a delicious meal to complete the day. Learn the secrets of how and when to use the traditional and basic spices of South Indian cooking. You will make fresh Garam Masala and homemade yogurt. You will walk away with the recipes and sample spices to get you started at home. Also, as a bonus, each of you will get your own yogurt starter to continue to make fresh yogurt at home. The meal will include your preference of one non-vegetarian dish and three vegetarian dishes. Dishes could include chicken or lamb curry, spinach dal or any dal variety, dosa and many other choices. We will work with you to create a menu that works for you and your family or friends. Complete vegetarian and vegan options are also available and all recipes can be modified to be allergy friendly. Cooking can take place at your own home on the Westside or the "El Marino" Durr family home in Culver City.

3027 Kay 'n Dave's $25 Gift Card

Our Food is traditional Mexican and then some. We make our corn tortillas and tamales by hand. We don't use lard. We buy top quality ingredients and have them delivered daily. And our recipes are made with fresh ingredients. Many of our dishes are the creation of our head chef, Alejo Grijalva. Alejo was born in Oaxaca, Mexico. He moved here when he was 17, and his first job was as a dishwasher at our Brentwood location. Alejo is a "self-taught" chef, and he loves what he does. Most of what he knows he learned from his mom. As a little boy, he loved cooking, and sat at her side in their humble Oaxacan kitchen learning how to make all the family recipes. A few examples are our handmade corn tortillas, banana leaf wrapped tamales, lamb birria and chicken suisa enchiladas. Our food isn't gourmet, nor do we aim to be cutting edge in creativity. But we do try hard to deliver authentic Oaxacan tastes with quality ingredients that are made fresh and healthy to eat.
